Island Conservation

SAVE, CARE & PROTECT

The Island Conservation Centre on Alphonse was established in 2007, and was the first ICS centre in the outer islands of the Seychelles. The centre monitors the key aspects of the ecosystem including: sea turtles, seabirds, coral reefs, and fish populations; as well as helping to protect the island flora and fauna through beach clean-ups and advising stakeholders on sustainable conservation issues.

The Alphonse Island Lodge provides support through its membership on the board of the Alphonse Conservation Foundation and hotel guests contribute essential funding to the activities of ICS through the payment of a conservation levy. Guests are invited to participate in activities such as the daily turtle patrol and beach cleans. ICS provides a weekly presentation which provides progress updates and discussion of environmental topics. Books and souvenirs can be purchased from the ICS office, with the proceeds providing further financial support to the conservation efforts.

'The Island Conservation Society promotes the conservation and restoration of island eco-systems, sustainable development of islands, and awareness of their vulnerability and vital importance to the planet's biodiversity.'
